

A scarce French geographical work is illustrated with eighty-seven plates, mostly signed by S. Hosse. The first is a frontispiece with a map of France and the rest relate to the French departments at that time. The upper half of each plate features a tiny borderless map of the department, with a view of its principal town in the lower half.

Panorama géographique français, ou Les mille et une beauties de la geographie de France ... par une société de geographes. Paris, A.J. Sanson, 1825.

